

COMMUNION THANKSGIVING SONG:

First Communicants will gather at the Altar to sing: "Child of God"

It happened on a journey to Galilee one day,
Disciples of the Lord began to argue on the way.
And when they asked the Master who the first of them would be,
He pointed to a little child for all the world to see.

Refrain: I am a child of God, a child of God I'll always be.
None can take this special place with God away from me.
I will behold the face of God, for all eternity.
Blessed be the God who takes such good care of me.

I've often thought of Bethlehem, the baby and that night,
And wondered if my faith were too grown up for such a sight.
But maybe that's the reason for his lowly birth: to show
That first we must be children, if we're ever going to grow. Refrain

As children of our loving God, a mystery we proclaim.
We always bear God's special care while proud are put to shame.
We find out strength in God alone, the maker of us all.
And may we keep our simple ways so we can hear God's call. Refrain
